TAKING CARE OF MIRAAC SURFACES

All Miraak surfaces respond best when handled gently. Warm water, a mild detergent, and a soapy water mixture can readily clean our Quartz surfaces when applied with a soft cloth or sponge. Handling the surface gently will retain its shine.

Scrape off any debris, food, or dried grease with a plastic spatula or use cleaning solutions designed especially for quartz counters, keeping in mind that abrasive cleaners can over time harm quartz surfaces.

Quartz countertops are resistant to dents, scratches, scuffs, stains, and burns, but they do not damage-proof. Warm water is advised after using products for quartz that have a pH close to neutral or with a reduced pH effect. Spills should be cleaned up as soon as possible to avoid stains because extended exposure to decalcifying substances can be harmful.

Surfaces made at Miraak Surfaces are extremely strong and resistant to scratches and stains. However, exposure to any potent agent, such as a hot environment or chemicals that degrade its physical qualities, can result in long-term damage. Hot cookware, such as electric skillets, should always be set down on mats or trivets. Use coasters when setting your drinks down on quartz counters because citrus-based liquids don't mix well with the material.
